

I think it is foolish to allow more cross ownership of media in local markets and believe it would unduly shift the balance and saturation of certain points of view to the detriment of others in many markets.